

Leadership Resource Centre

As the world changes so quickly and sometimes unpredictably, the need to have well-informed leaders who understand these transitions remains crucial. As clichéd as it may sound, knowledge is the key to helping us effectively relate and resiliently respond to changes at pace – and, the more we have it, the better.

Through our Resource Centre, users can access the latest publications and insights on leadership and sustainable development.

With over 50,000 publications in print, audio and electronic formats, this leadership hub equips users (including executives, researchers, students and business professionals) with the relevant knowledge to keep up with the pace of change.
